

Wear Your Crown

Wear Your Crown

Published by Inscript Books
P.O. Box 611
Bladensburg, MD 20710-0611
www.inscriptpublishing.com

Copyright © 2019
by Libby Radabaugh
Cover Design by Libby Radabaugh Cover and Interior illustrations by Elizabeth Pope
Dedication Photo by LundynBridge Photography

All rights reserved.

No part of this publication may be used or reproduced without permission of the publisher, except for brief quotes for scholarly use, reviews or articles.

ISBN: 9781734303209

Published in the United States of America

Once upon a time there was a horse, and she was good, of course.

A beauty, yes she was indeed.
A unique and special breed.

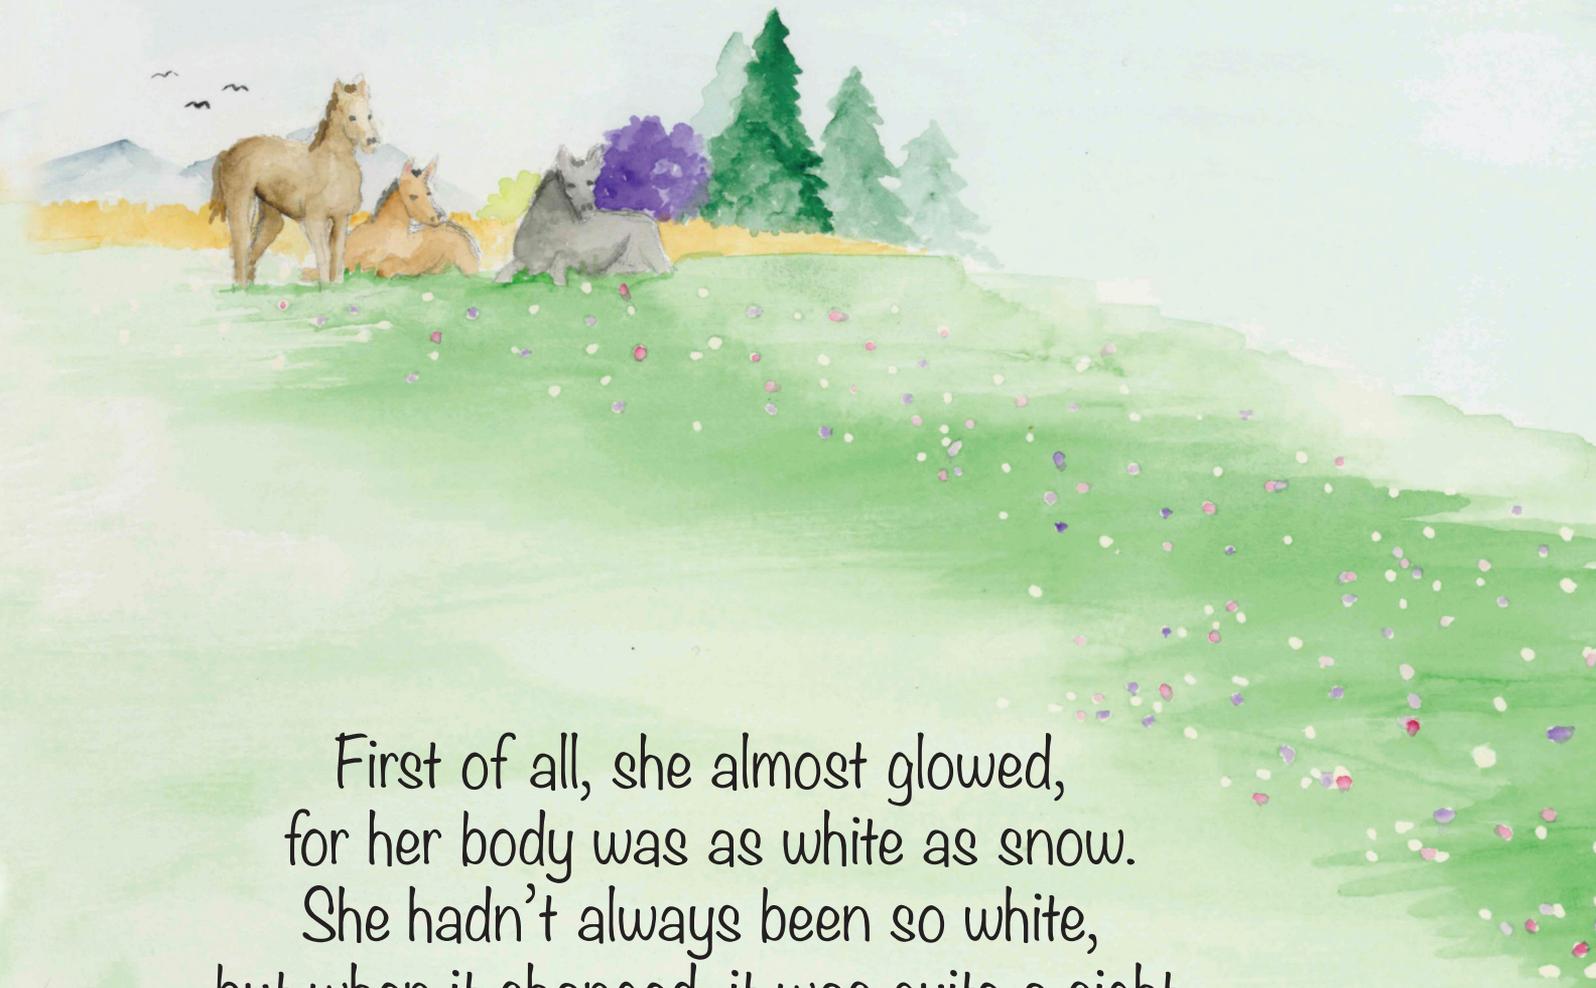

This horse was special,
but she didn't know she had something many others don't.

The others thought she was strange.
Sometimes they laughed,
sometimes they frowned.
Sometimes they would not make a sound.
She wondered what they saw,
for she didn't know
what made her stand out amongst the crowd.

Do you know?
Well, I'll help you out.

First of all, she almost glowed,
for her body was as white as snow.
She hadn't always been so white,
but when it changed, it was quite a sight.
A horse is born the shade of color
like what we see on you and me.

But as she grew, she had to choose along life's path what she'll do.
Each choice determines what she'll be,
a normal horse or that special breed.

What would you choose?

What made her coat turn white?
She doesn't know, but I'll shed some light.
It all began when she was small;
she had to choose between right and wrong.

You see, any lie or unkind deed keeps her the color
she was born.

But when she chooses right
from wrong,
each choice brought this new color on.

The truth is always what she chose,
so now her coat almost glows.